ARS Twenty

ARS Twenty was inspired by the 9 pt. screen font I designed ARS OCRU. It's a monospaced font in 3 weights built on a 4 x 5 grid matrix. Problematically, a grid of these dimensions has no middle lines across its width; while letters such as W and M are hard to design, others, namely T, Y and I are hard to balance. It is precisely these kind of problems that made this design Fun!

Roughly inspired by the early type designs of Robert Hunter Middleton, this font family is simply a "compilation" of everything I've always liked and appreciated in a "workhorse" sans serif typeface. It is a growing family with more weights in production. OpenType Pro version is in extensive production as well.
